Monaco Art Week returned this week and will offer a new artistic journey in the Principality.

The event is part of a dense cultural calendar during this period, benefiting from the dynamism of the artmonte-carlo fair, as well as the numerous summer exhibitions on the French Riviera.

Monaco Art Week will offer the opportunity to discover the various exhibitions organised by the participating galleries and auction houses.

From La Condamine to Larvotto, via Monte Carlo, visitors will find works by artists from different periods: Italian Renaissance masterpieces at the Moretti Fine Art gallery; modern and contemporary masters, fine jewellery and Luxury items for collectors, at the Sotheby's auction house; transgressive works by American artist Paul McCarthy, presented by Hauser & Wirth gallery; modern sculptures, often monumental, installed outdoors for the Monaco Sculptures sale by Artcurial, in partnership with Monte-Carlo SBM; modern masters such as Pablo Picasso and contemporary artists including Hilary Pecis and Shara Hughes, gathered in the exhibition The Great Indoors presented by Christie's auction house; design and abstract and figurative art from Bastian Gallery in the magnificent Monaco villa of Lenzwerk Monaco; century-old olive-tree sculptures by the Uruguayan artist Pablo Atchugarry, presented by Galerie Adriano Ribolzi; paintings by outstanding masters and contemporary artists at Opera Gallery's Monaco Masters Show; paintings from the Apocalypse collection by Franco-German artist Eric Massholder, and SmartVerum's innovative project that combines the world of fine and digital art at Kamil Art Gallery; photographs by French environmentalist Yann Arthus-Bertrand at Bel'Art Fine Art; recent works by English artist Adam Bricusse at G&M Design; Analytical Paintings by Italian artist Paolo Masi, at NM Contemporary in collaboration with Frittelli arte contemporanea, Florence.

Reflecting on current trends, Musée Collection des Arts, CADAF, Magdalena M.

Gabriel and MetaVRse, will host "The Web 3.0: Art Talks" – an insider look at collecting, curating, and investing in digital art and NFTs, together with an exhibition to remember Josephine and Napoleon most intimate art.

Picasso, Botero and McCarthy in Monte-Carlo

Located in the heart of the route, the Monte-Carlo district hosted nine events. Galerie Adriano Ribolzi presented never-before-seen sculptures of century-old olive trees by Uruguayan artist Pablo Atchugarry. Next door, sculpture was also in the spotlight at M.F. Toninelli Modern Art with a collection of works by renowned modern artists, including Hans Arp and Constantin Brâncusi. A few metres away, fifty paintings by masters such as Marc Chagall, Fernand Léger and Pablo Picasso, and by exceptional contemporary artists, including Yayoi Kusama, Fernando Botero and Manolo Valdés were brought together during the Monaco Masters Show exhibition at Opera Gallery.

Jewelry, handbags and luxury watches on display

Sotheby's auction house opened its permanent space in the Principality with a large selection of works from private collections, by artists Claude and François-Xavier Lalanne, alongside an exclusive selection of jewelry, handbags and luxury watches. In the gardens of the Hôtel Hermitage and Hôtel de Paris, visitors came across an impressive selection of modern and contemporary sculptures from the Monaco Sculptures sale by Artcurial in partnership with the SBM. These works will be sold at the end of July during a special event. The Hôtel de Paris allowed visitors to discover high jewelry house Boghossian, which celebrates bold creations in diamonds and precious stones.

Special Events about Digital Art Market and 3D Exhibition

Special events during Monaco Art Week 2022 included a conference in English on 14 July which discussed the digital art market, titled 'The Art Market 3.0: An Insider Look at Collecting, Curating, and Investing in Digital Art and NFTs'. The conference was a chance to celebrate past and present perceptions of beauty and perfection and reflect on current trends. The event aimed to demystify complexities connected with the NFT art market and served as a gateway to the exciting world of Web3.

The Musée Collection des Arts presented a Virtual 3D Exhibition entitled 'ReMix3D'. The event, by invitation only, was an ultra-exclusive virtual 3D exhibition celebrating the beauty and wonder of the Musée Collection Des Arts, one of the largest private collections in the world, and the personal art collection of David & Mikhail Lakobachvili. The one of a kind exhibition showcased several priceless artworks, not yet available to the public, in a stunning 3D digital environment.
